Project: Write a landing page promoting a software platform to help Comedy Club owners sell more of their tickets and manage sales.

Objective: Prospects landed on the page after clicking a link in an email. The page needed to reflect their needs and match their expectations. Two different versions of the page have been written to be tested; a longer more emotional one and a shorter, to the point one.

If there's one thing harder than making people laugh for a living, it's running a comedy club.

Here Are the Tools You Need to Sell More of Your Tickets

It's full house tonight. Jam-packed with your patrons, those you know like your best friends.

A lot of new faces at the bar and in the crowd too! There's almost not enough air in the room for everybody to breathe, but you know from those hysterical laughs, they're having the time of their lives.

Business is booming and word spreads like wildfire.

What would you give for nights like these... You just spaced out and you're stuck filling in paperwork that is piling up faster than you've planned. Next comes promotion, flyers, posters, booking and comedians looking for work.

They email the club, then your personal email, then Facebook message the club, then find your Facebook profile thinking that "Hey if you see how hilarious I am on chat, you HAVE to book me!". Then the phone rings and you're just about to explode.

It's not even 10am.

It doesn't have to be this way

For many club-owners it's all about making money than the comedy business itself.

Who can blame them when at the end of the day all their efforts bring in more stress than actual results. As long as the money keeps coming in, who cares about what your customers think right? So they keep on merely scraping by.

What most of them forgot along all these hard and nerve-wracking years in business, is that the secret to a profitable comedy club is nailing the customer experience.

From the moment they buy your tickets, to the time you welcome them at the club, to when they cash out and leave at the end of the night. Easier said than done when, by constantly having different comics, you're basically promoting to a different audience on a weekly basis. There's got to be a better way...

Make customers happier night after night, and get more of them

The times of squeezing flyers under windshields are long gone. Promotion is the name of the game in comedy and today's promotion starts online.

With our Event Management Tools, your comedy club will be the talk of the town and you will get your peace of mind and sanity back.

Features like group sales, discounts, or season packages & reserved seating. All managed from one, super easy-to-use platform, will make your life simpler and your business more profitable.

Create events in bulk, add single or bulk complimentary tickets, and use our call center to take ticket orders over the phone. Literally sell tickets 24/7.

Managing your sales more effectively is not enough to create raving fans and boost your bottom line. That's why we'll help you easily keep in touch with your patrons, so you can engage them and learn priceless insights like their buying habits and preferences.

Make your customers happier and excited to spread the word about your venue as soon as they set foot out the door. You'll be able to blast emails out to targeted groups and have them share your event on social media with our built-in tools. Directly from your event's page.
